

Love Poem

you tell me
there may be regret

and there very well
may be

but there is one thing you're not thinking of...

I love you more than elephants love peanuts

I love you more than coyotes love howling at the moon

I love you today
and I'll love you tomorrow

I'll love you
until the end of my days until I type my last word this much I can promise you and I know you feel the same so the only question is,

do you trust me?